Unfinished business from December Meeting:

-Everything Jewish

Each month he would like to feature one of our artists. He only wants Judaica. May be better to have a man make the arrangements - possibly Jonathon?

-Contact List

Roz to send Diane list of e-mail addresses. Diane to make a cohesive list for mailing group event information.

Jewish Arts Month

All set. We need to advertise this event.

First week we will have Rose Schnitzer art up.

During the MJCC JAM month show: Michelle proposed a PJA arts night and the during each one of the weeks we are showing at PJA that classes can come during the school day and talk with the artist manning the show about their artwork.

During spring break for Portland Public Schools, possibility for PJA kids to show their artwork.

Brauna to contact Bethany to see what has been done and what else can be done.

Everyone in each week's group puts up their show.

Esther will draft a letter saying each person is responsible for their own insurance.

Eddy to double check on location of safe for the show.

Brauna will send out letter to Boris Urensoli saying he doesn't have to sell and insurance is up to him.

She will also send out letter to all with what to bring to set up a successful show, that each artist is responsible for their own insurance, and that the MJCC will get 15% of all sales.

Ora Shalom

Glen to send out a note to members about showing in the cases.

Treasurer's report - no change

Other News

Sharon and Laurie had meeting with Marc Blattner - he alluded to the possibility of a center on the east side for the arts. Eddy participated in a focus group.

The Jewish Federation is thinking about reorganizing. Pulling all the smaller organizations together under one roof.

Laurie...She lives across the street from a Renaissance Arts and Science School, a private elementary school. She talked to the school about our group meeting with students, helping them create artwork and having a group show - artist and students. Also, we can have our art up for sale inside. .

3 sessions one to three hours at a time.

Website: We need to get people trained to do the website.

We need to reorganize internally.
